9. Criteria for admission to the programme

The University's standard entry requirement for LLM Advanced Legal Practice (SQE pathway) consists of a Law degree at 2:2 or Graduate Diploma in Law.

However, graduates in related disciplines, with law minors or with relevant professional experience or qualifications may be admitted subject to the Programme Leader's discretion. Other non-UK qualifications will be considered in accordance with NARIC guidelines.

International students who have not been taught in the English medium must show evidence of proven ability in English equivalent to IELTS grade 6.5 (with minimum 6.0 in all four components).

University policies supporting students with disabilities apply, as described in the University Regulations.

Principle of fair admission

The University aims to ensure that its admissions processes are fair, open and transparent and aims to admit students who, regardless of their background, demonstrate potential to successfully complete their chosen programme of study where a suitable place exists and where entry criteria are met. The University values diversity and is committed to equality in education and students are selected on the basis of their individual merits, abilities and aptitudes. The University ensures that the operation of admissions processes and application of entry criteria are taken in compliance with the Equality Act.

We take a personalised but fair approach to how we make offers. We feel it is important that our applicants continue to aspire to achieving great results and make offers which take into account pieces of information provided to us on the application form.

This includes recognition of previous learning and experience. If you have been working, or you have other learning experience that is relevant to your course, then we can count this towards your entry requirements and even certain modules once you start studying.

10. Aims of the programme

The programme aims to:

The programme aims to:

Support the development of the necessary legal knowledge required to undertake the mandatory external SQE1 examination, part of the Solicitors Qualifying Examination, for those wishing to qualify and practice as solicitors of England and Wales.

Equip students with the necessary skills required to undertake the mandatory external SQE2 examination, part of the Solicitors Qualifying Examination, for those wishing to qualify and practice as solicitors of England and Wales.

Deepen and broaden students' knowledge in specialised international legal fields and processes of their choice. Enhance students' professional development and horizons by maximising their academic potential and refining their problem-solving skills in a transnational context.

Provide students with the necessary tools to apply the acquired knowledge, legal research and writing skills to the process of producing an original piece of research on a topic connected to an area of choice and relevant to legal practice.

Provide eligible students with guidance, so that they can obtain professional experience commensurate with postgraduate level of study and, by so doing, to advance knowledge, critical thinking and understanding appropriate to level 7.

Equip students with research and writing skills which will be transferable to different professional sectors, including the legal profession, policymaking, corporate sector, governmental bodies or academia

11. Programme learning outcomes

Programme - Knowledge and Understanding

On completion of this programme the successful student will have a knowledge and understanding of:

1. Fundamental legal principles, concepts, and techniques in the key areas of law required by the SRA.
2. The limitations of the body of knowledge, with regard to law in context and practice.
3. Research data and the use of primary sources such as legislation, case law, and secondary source material such as government reports, white and green papers, and refereed journal articles.
4. Recent developments in the legal discipline and its professional practice, including the significance of ethical, social, business and political contexts within which the law operates.
5. How to deal with complex legal and policy issues both systematically and creatively, making informed judgments in the absence of complete information, and communicating your conclusions clearly.
6. Approaches, tools and techniques for Master's level research and/or advanced scholarship.
7. Methodology and research skills necessary to transfer the learning acquired through taught modules or work placement to the process of writing a research project or a substantial evidence-based report.

Programme - Skills

On completion of this programme the successful student will be able to:

8. Synthesise legal data, original source material, legal authority, and a critical interpretation of findings.
9. Display the ability to critique the validity of competing arguments based in law.
10. Critically evaluate the logic for and against core theories that underpin the legal tradition and reflect systematically on their applicability in a real-world context.

11. Communicate the six legal skills of client interviewing, advocacy, case and matter analysis, legal research, legal writing and legal drafting.

12. Apply a range of academic and intellectual skills relevant to postgraduate level study including information gathering, critical analysis, synthesis, problem solving, creativity, innovation and evaluation to aid decision making by policy makers, governmental and non-governmental actors in the private and public sector.

13. Undertake critical, independent research and systematically identify, retrieve, investigate and manage information from a range of academic and other relevant sources.

14. Apply relevant core legal principles and rules within the context of the practice areas in which they apply appropriately and effectively to realistic client-based and ethical problems and situations.

12. Teaching/learning methods

The LLM Advanced Legal Practice (SQE pathway) employs a diverse range of teaching and learning methods, including interactive workshops with peer and self-assessment to foster active student engagement. Class discussions and videos further enhance learning where suitable. Independent study is guided by recommended readings, materials, and exercises, which are then applied in classroom activities. Research skills are developed intensively, especially in the Legal Research Skills module, which provides essential tools for postgraduate work, such as critical analysis, academic writing, and information retrieval.

The teaching strategy for Solicitors Legal Knowledge- LEX4808 and Solicitors Legal Skills- LEX4820 modules, both of which are delivered fully online, include online instruction, personal 1-2-1 supervision, consultation of core e-texts or e-handbooks with integrated multiple-choice tests, audio-visual media, flashcard exercises, client/ethical based case studies with multiple choice tests, media demonstrations of legal writing, self-practice skills tasks and feedback sessions. All teaching and learning methods incorporated aim at engaging students in active learning, imparting information through different methods whilst engaging them in active learning with student-led activities to solidify knowledge in the fundamental areas of law, identify the limitations therein and engage with the relevant legal sources in clear and meaningful manner.

The programme's modules, particularly the research project and research skills components, help students to identify research questions, conduct research, and draft substantial projects. A critical approach frames the learning experience, considering the social, historical, and cultural contexts within which the law operates. For those enrolled in the Work Integrated Learning internship module, real-world experience is provided, allowing students to develop professional skills through practical challenges, with mentorship from faculty or industry partners. Assessment methods vary across modules, including but not limited to presentations, literature reviews, case study analysis, critical essays, research papers, enabling students to demonstrate their ability to analyse, evaluate, and synthesise legal concepts and arguments.

13. Employability

13a Development of graduate competencies

13b Employability development

The LLM Advanced Legal Practice (SQE pathway) is designed to equip students with the essential competencies required in the legal and human rights sectors. Through a combination of rigorous academic coursework, practical learning experiences, and research-based activities, students will enhance their communication skills by engaging in structured discussions, written assignments, and presentations, fostering clarity, precision, and persuasive argumentation. Problem-solving abilities are cultivated through the critical analysis of complex human rights issues, where students are encouraged to apply legal principles to address real-world challenges in the field of international commercial and business law, as well as international law and human rights.

The programme promotes strong organisational, planning, and management skills through the completion of research projects, assignments and internships, where students must manage time effectively, plan their work, and navigate multiple tasks. Students are also encouraged to demonstrate enthusiasm and a commitment to learning, as they engage with current global human rights issues, adapt to evolving legal frameworks, and expand their knowledge of international law in diverse cultural, political, and legal contexts. Flexibility is developed through exposure to various international legal systems, human rights mechanisms, and challenges, enabling students to adapt their approach and thinking to a range of international contexts.

The development of leadership and influence is enabled through the many opportunities provided in modules through teamwork exercises, research initiatives and working on their research projects. Students build their confidence to undertake such roles and academic colleagues encourage students accordingly. Entrepreneurship is promoted through identifying and generating solutions to complex challenges and global issues to facilitate a strategic entrepreneurial mindset. Their self-directed learning and ability to identify gaps in knowledge enhances their deep intellectual curiosity and enthusiasm to learn. Skills of empathy and inclusion are enhanced by the diversity of the student body and communicating with fellow students and staff, many of whom have diverse international experience. Collaborative innovation is enabled by actively contributing to and encouraging idea generation and respectfully challenging peers to ensure creative, positive outcomes. Using more advanced methodologies, researching multiple solutions and applying findings with precision and impact expands problem solving skills and enables the delivery of high quality outcomes working within deadlines. Technological agility is increased using legal cutting edge platforms for research and innovation and adapting to rapidly changing technological landscapes, including generative AI and utilising new techniques that are transformative to the legal discipline. All the graduate competencies are designed to produce employable graduates with a diverse range of knowledge and skills, making them valuable assets in the workplace.

13c Placement and work experience opportunities (if applicable)

N/A

13d Future careers / progression

The LLM Advanced Legal Practice (SQE Pathway) is specifically developed to support students in employability and career progression. The specific SQE focused modules are tailored to support them to be ready to undertake the SQE exams, required for anyone to be employed in law firms and work as a solicitor of England and Wales. Graduates of the LLM Advanced Legal Practice (SQE pathway) have access to a wide range of legal careers, including:

Solicitor (England and Wales): Upon completion of the programme, graduates are equipped to attempt the SQE exams and pursue a career as solicitors in England and Wales.

Legal Advisor: Graduates can pursue roles providing legal advice within private companies, public institutions, or non-governmental organizations.

Paralegal: Graduates can work in legal support roles, gaining experience or completing the SQE process to progress their legal careers.

In-House Counsel: Graduates are prepared for legal roles within corporations, focusing on compliance, contracts, and regulatory matters.

Legal Consultant: Graduates can advise clients on specific areas of law, including commercial law, corporate law, and dispute resolution.

14. Assessment methods

Assessments take a variety of forms including multiple choice tests, courseworks, research projects, case studies, policy reports, portfolios, literature reviews and oral presentations. The assessment of the Work Integrated Learning module will include a diary and an original academic research paper that indicates understanding of the background and questions faced by the organisation within which the placement is conducted. The range of assessment methods allows students to demonstrate their ability to identify and analyse legal issues by requiring them to apply knowledge of legal principles to practical questions drawing reasoned and defensible conclusions supported by legal authority. This will require the interpretation and application of primary and secondary source materials. Students will recognise potential conclusions for particular situations and provide supporting reasons for them. Assessment methods in every module expect students to demonstrate a critical and evaluative approach which analyses and discriminates between competing legal arguments and reflects on the doctrines and principles underpinning the law. Literature reviews are particularly designed to enable students to identify authoritative sources and assess their contribution to a given area of research or professional practice.
